(Examples of inter-age activities and multi grade activities)

○○○○Year/○○Month

Special Activities club

1 Aim

- To develop a sense of solidarity and deepen exchanges between children of different grades through activities.
- Enjoy the activities while cooperating, and foster independence and practical attitude through the activities.
- Enjoy the activities while cooperating with others and develop independence and practical attitude through these activities.

2 Aims of each grade

- Lower grades: To enjoy participating in these activities and interacting with various students.
- Middle grades: To enjoy participating in these activities and respect for older students and cooperate with them and support their work.
- Senior year: Treat lower graders with consideration and to work independently to plan and organize events that everyone can enjoy.

3 Group Formation

- Divide each grade into 12 groups (Red 1~4, Blue 1~4, Yellow 1~4).
- The number of children in each group should be evenly distributed between boys and girls.
- ※For 5th and 6th grades, odd-numbered groups are formed by children from Group 1 and even-numbered groups are formed by children from Group 2.
- Make a list in the following order: 6th grade → 5th grade → 4th grade → 3rd grade → 2nd grade → 1st grade.
※There will be two lists, one in kanji and one in hiragana

The preparation of the list of names shall be completed by the (○ day, ○ month)(○ day of the week).

4 Planning and management

- Sixth graders become group leaders or deputy group leaders and plan and organize multi group activities.
- Sixth graders will write down a proposal and get it signed by the teacher in charge of each group; it will be posted on the Nakayoshi-ko board one week before the event.
- At the end of the activity, the students will have a review and reflection with the teacher in charge and use this information for the next activity.
- After the activity, they review and reflect with the teacher in charge, and make use of it for the next activity.
- The handover will take place in January. After that, the 5th graders will be in charge and manage the activity.
